

PREAMBLE

The increasing demands of modern day governance means that governments the world over like never before, have to evolve and develop new strategies to effectively tackle the challenges and opportunities that are constantly being thrown up. In Nigeria especially, governments at all levels are now being faced with the ever increasing need to provide effective governance to its citizenry by ensuring the security of lives and property, provision of quality Medicare, creation of equal job opportunities for its teeming populace, provision of greater accountability and excellent service delivery in the public sector and a host of others but to mention a few.

However, it is obvious that government cannot readily meet up all these demand without the active participation of members of the community. We believe that instead of waiting for the government to do everything for us, we can help ourselves by being responsible citizens who will proffer solutions to our immediate challenges as members of the community. Hence the aim of HFCI is to shift the attention of people from waiting on government to become solution providers, "helping people help themselves".

Self-empowerment, entrepreneurship and community self-help will remain the best option for development in any community and country. The earlier Nigerians as individuals and as a people begin to key into self-development and sustenance as the bedrock for any meaningful development the better our hope of becoming a developed economy within the context of Global Development visions.
